

Employee Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

April 2024

Ascend Performance Materials Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

1. Introduction

The Ascend Performance Materials Code of Business Conduct and Ethics (the “Code”) provides guidance about business behavior expected of the Ascend community as we work and interface with fellow employees, customers, suppliers, business partners and other stakeholders.

The Code is supported by company policies, which are available on Ascend's Governance & Compliance site. You may also be covered by additional site and/or departmental procedures. However, this Code and the policies cannot answer every question or address every possible business situation. Therefore, you are expected to use good judgment and seek guidance from the resources identified in the Code when you have questions about the appropriate course of action.

2. Scope and Compliance

The Code is applicable to all officers, directors, and employees of Ascend Performance Materials Holdings Inc. and its subsidiaries (“Ascend”). Failure to comply with the Code, including not reporting actual or suspected violations of which you are aware, may result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

3. Policy Statement

Ascend's business success depends on our ability to build trusted relationships—with each other, as well as with our customers, suppliers, governments and communities. This means that you have a responsibility to:

- Ask questions and raise concerns;
- Conduct business with honesty and integrity;
- Follow the letter and spirit of the law;
- Treat each other with dignity and respect; and
- Protect Ascend's assets and reputation.

3.1. Ask Questions and Raise Concerns

Raise Your Concerns Promptly

Ascend is dedicated to giving you the support and advice you need to comply with this Code, corporate-level policies and applicable laws and regulations.

If you have any reason to believe this Code, corporate policies or applicable laws and regulations have been or may be violated, you are expected to immediately report such activity to any of the following resources:

- Local Management;
- Human Resources;
- Legal Department; or
- Ascend's EthicsPoint Hotline.

Ascend's EthicsPoint Hotline, a confidential reporting option provided by a third-party service, is available via phone and online:

- 1-877-314-3994 (toll-free in the U.S. and Canada);
- www.reportlineweb.com/APM

All reports are taken seriously and investigated appropriately. The conclusions and any recommended corrective actions of investigations will be treated as confidentially as possible.

Retaliation is Not Tolerated

Ascend does not tolerate retaliation against any employee who, acting in good faith, reports suspected misconduct, asks questions or raises concerns.

Cooperate with Investigations, Lawsuits and Legal Proceedings

Ascend's commitment to conducting business with integrity requires that we take all credible good-faith reports of suspected misconduct seriously, investigate them fairly and confidentially, and take action where needed. You must cooperate fully in Ascend-authorized investigations and audits, which may be conducted by representatives from Legal and Human Resources, as well as members of Ascend's external audit and legal firms.

Lawsuits, legal proceedings and investigations by government or regulatory agencies involving Ascend must be handled promptly and in an appropriate manner. You should bring all such matters immediately to the attention of the Legal Department.

You should retain documents relevant to any lawsuit, legal proceeding or investigation as explained in the Record Retention Policy. All external requests for information must be forwarded to the Legal Department. The Legal Department will oversee information gathering and coordinate Ascend's response to the external party. When you are asked to provide relevant records, you must promptly provide them to the Legal Department. You should not provide records directly to an external party without prior approval from the Legal Department.

3.2. Conduct Business with Honesty and Integrity

Avoid Conflicts of Interest

You should avoid any activity that conflicts with, or appears to conflict with, the interests of Ascend. A conflict of interest is a situation in which you, a member of your family or another individual with whom you have a significant personal relationship has professional or personal interests that could affect your objectivity in making decisions as an Ascend employee. Conflicts of interest may arise when you or a member of your family receives improper personal benefits as a result of your position with Ascend. Loans to, or guarantees of obligations of, an employee or an employee's family member may also create conflicts of interest.

It is usually a conflict of interest for an Ascend employee to work simultaneously for a competitor, customer or supplier. Employees are not allowed to work for a competitor as a consultant or board member. The best practice is to avoid any direct or indirect business connection with Ascend competitors, customers or suppliers, except on behalf of Ascend.

Conflicts of interest may not always be immediately evident. If you have questions or if you become aware of a conflict of interest or a potential conflict of interest, you should contact the Legal Department.

Adhere to Internal Controls

Internal Controls are designed to provide reasonable assurance and mitigating events to protect and safeguard Company assets; ensure the reliability of the financial and management reporting structure; and to ensure compliance with all applicable laws and regulations.

Internal Controls consist of two broad categories which are:

- Accounting Controls – designed to deal with the accounting activities of the business and aim to achieve certain basic objectives which are validation, accuracy, completeness, maintenance and physical security.
- Administrative Controls – designed to deal with the operating controls of the Company and focus primarily on compliance with policies and procedures, as well as applicable laws and regulations in all departments other than Accounting/Finance; economic and efficient use of resources; ability to meet established operating goals and objectives; and availability of accurate and reliable operating data.

Promote Fair Competition

Ascend will succeed in a fair and competitive marketplace by providing customers with superior products and services at reasonable prices. We follow laws designed to preserve free and open competition, often referred to as “antitrust laws.” Generally, applicable antitrust laws prohibit the following conduct:

- Price fixing, which includes verbal, tacit or implied agreements among competitors about prices;
- Bid rigging, through which a party agrees to not bid, bid at a certain price or submit a bid that is intentionally less favorable than a competitor’s bid;
- Territorial or customer allocation, through which competitors divide or allocate customers or territories to be served; and
- Market division among competitors to allocate customers, territories or products.

Antitrust and trade regulation laws in various countries may differ, and any question about specific conduct or a specific situation should be directed to the Legal Department.

Comply with Export and Import Regulations

Ascend engages with a global audience. We therefore fully comply with the export and import laws, rules and regulations of the countries in which we do business. Every country in which we do business maintains a complex set of laws that regulate the Company’s ability to import and export goods and technology.
